First Five Years Most Important

Education experts met at school bus
at birth, according to Dr. Margaret Wilker, professor of child guidance
at the New York State College of Home Economics at Cornell University. Psychologists have produced evidence to show that the first five years is the most important learning
period. The small child's learning depends upon his guidance. His success and happiness depends on the number of adjustments he is able to make without strain and stress.
Every influence, then, leaves its effect. Materials with which he plays, word and tones which he hears, all that he sees leaves its mark on his personality. These influences will be discussed on November 14 by Dr. Wilker, in her lecture,
"Should Children Obey?" which will be held at 2:30 o'clock at the Fair Street Reformed Church. An exhibit of suitable toys and books for young children will be displayed and discussed both in the lecture, "Should Children Obey?" and in the lecture
on the following day, "Suitable Toys
for Young Children."

GOAL OF RED CROSS ANNUAL ROLL CALL 5,000,000 MEMBERS

Disaster Relief and Work for Veterans Cause Heavy Drain
on Resources.

In order to enable the American Red Cross to carry on its broad activities, ranging from service to the world war veteran to instant response in time of disaster, a membership of 5,000,000 should be enrolled, and in this year of 1928-1929 that is the goal set for the twelfth annual roll call, to be held from November 11 to 29, Armistice to Thanksgiving Day.

John Burton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross at Washington,
in calling upon the nation for 5,000,000
adult members, directs attention to the great expenditures required of the Red Cross for disaster and veteran relief work, and for its many other activities devoted to health preservation
and improvement and to cutting down
the number of accidental deaths,
through life saving and first aid
courses.

"The Red Cross should at all times
have a large reserve fund," Judge Payne stated, "because when disaster
strikes, and this organization is called into instant action, there is no time to stop and raise funds. Dollars may mean lives, so we should have at all times a good reserve. We have been forced each year to draw upon our reserves, and we find that the demands are increasing annually."

Judge Payne pointed out that in the fiscal year of 1927-28, the Red Cross
had extended aid in 66 major catastrophes in the United States and its insular possessions, and in 22 nations abroad. This does not include the West Indies hurricane disaster in Porto Rico and Florida, which occurred after the close of the Red Cross
fiscal year, June 30, 1928.

The Red Cross expenditures for disaster in that period were $16,544,- 258.87, of which approximately $13,- 000,000 was expended in the Mississippi Valley for the flood relief work,
which came from a fund contributed by the public. More than $1,000,000
was expended in the St. Louis tornado damage, and more than $1,000,000 in New England. In both cases public relief funds were raised, although in New England the Red Cross contributed in excess of $500,000 from its own funds for the relief work. In the majority of the other 66 disasters, and in all of the 22 foreign catastrophes
in which the Red Cross extended aid,
the money came from its own resources.

The largest item in the annual budget of the Red Cross is for its veteran relief and work for disabled ex-service
and service men, upon which it expended in this year $1,169,795.

Every man and woman is asked by Judge Payne to join the Red Cross
during the roll call period, to aid in these humanitarian enterprises.

Ten years after the Armistice, the American Red Cross still carries on for the world war veteran, providing comfort and entertainment for him
in hospital, aiding his family where necessary, preparing and following
through his claims for insurance,
compensation or disability.

America holds the Red Cross emblem sacred because it represents a universal helpfulness—a service to all citizens—without regard to race, color
or creed.

L. M. Decker, who has been ill for

California Plans Great Reception

San Francisco, Nov. 8 (AP).—California Republicans today began laying plans for a significant reception to honor one of its favorite sons, President-elect Herbert Hoover.

Although the Republican Central committee of Santa Clara county, in which Hoover's home is located, sponsored the plans, a share in the projected reception was assigned to the state organization. It is to be held in San Jose. The date has not been decided upon.

The majority relied up for the Republican standard bearer reaped almost a half million votes in California when returns from 8461 precincts out of the 9086 in the state had been tabulated. The vote was: Hoover 1,045,617; Smith 551,930.

Great as it was, Hoover's overwhelming majority was less than that of the veteran Senator Hiram Johnson of California, seeking reelection in a race against Minor Moore of Los Angeles, a Democrat.

THANKSGIVING TURKEY CROP SHOWS INCREASE

Chicago, Nov. 8 (AP).—For the leading producing states, the Thanksgiving turkey crop of 1934 is 4 per cent increased compared with a year ago.

Reports today from the government Bureau of Agricultural Economics said most of the north central states have produced more turkeys than last year, and there is a big increase in the western states.

The latter increase is ascribed largely to commercial hatching. Weather conditions, on the whole, were more favorable to turkey production this year than last.

On Rearing Children from CRIB to COLLEGE

Respect for personality is one of the prime requisites of culture. The best means we have of inculcating it in our children is through the consideration we show to them as independent and sovereign persons.

If you would know your children well, take them on hikes; see how much they observe; test their endurance of minor inconveniences and their sportsmanship. There are many misadventures that create gales of merriment and many proofs of comradeship as they help one another over the difficult places. The parent who goes adventuring with youth gains much self-discipline, learns more of self-control, and enriches his own life immeasurably.

In choosing garments for the young child, choose those which do not present many difficulties. You can find waists and underwear and pajamas that button in front. Select stockings that are loose enough to be easily adjusted, and buttons that are sizable enough for chubby fingers to hang onto as they are maneuvered through the buttonhole. Shoes can be marked so that even the youngest child can tell the right from the left. Bloomers, if correctly fitted, are just as comfortable with an elastic band around the waist as they are with a buttonhole band and are then quite simple to pull on and off, provided the front is marked. Some of the newer jersey suits for boys come with elastic in the trouser bands. The sweater waist pulls on and extends over this band, presenting a trim effect.

In order that words may have dependable meanings to an infant, his father and mother must agree upon a few key words which they will use consistently in bringing about the responses which they wish their child to make. A baby changes constantly. To each word addressed to him, thoughtlessly or otherwise, he is making some kind of a response. While at first a word may be merely a sound, more or less pleasant, the baby very soon begins to differentiate among words and varies his behavior accordingly.

When marking hems in dresses for the rapidly growing girl, make a line of measurement two inches from the hemline measurement, and crease on this line. Make a three-quarter-inch tuck, and then proceed with the regular process of hemming. When it becomes necessary to lengthen the dress, the tuck may be removed and an inch and a half will have been added with little effort.

The best book for children published this year, according to a committee of librarians, and awarded the Newbery Medal is "Gay Neck," the biography of a pigeon.

Lace, Velvet Combined; Ermine Is Also Popular

Velvet and ermine are frequently paired in the season's fashions.

The dressmakers put them together in dresses and coats for afternoon and evening, and one designer even shows a house coat of quilted velvet colored with ermine. The velvet, naturally, is always black.

Another per combination of the dress collection is velvet and real fur. Usually the lace is used for soft ruffles around the neck and at the cuffs. Some houses show lace ruffles as printed as well as plain velvet dresses.

Early Grain Binders

The first recorded attempt to bind grain by machinery was made by John K. Heath of Ohio, who obtained a patent for a reaper and binder in 1850. In 1851 Cyrus McCormick of Illinois exhibited a binder in the world's fair in London.

Fears Decay in Military Spirit

Colonel Robbins, Assistant Secretary of War, Fears Wealth of Nation is Bringing About Decay in Military and Patriotic Spirit of the People.

New York, Nov. 8 (AP).—Expressing fear that the wealth of the nation is bringing about a decay in the military and patriotic spirit of the people, Colonel Charles B. Robbins, assistant secretary of war, today told the New York City Rotary Club to "turn a deaf ear to the fallacies of internationalism and pacifism."

Speaking in connection with the tenth anniversary of the signing of the world armistice, to be observed Sunday, Colonel Robbins declared that every war in which this country has participated was brought through inadequate national defense and asserted that "there can be no national security without national defense."

The World War did prevent the autocratic domination of the world by Germany "but did not introduce a great era of world brotherhood and good will," he said. He said he was convinced that wars did not prevent future wars because nations still have national aims and aspirations and wars would be engendered out of their misunderstandings and hatreds.

"It has always been the case that with wealth comes a decay in the military spirit—a contemplation of material resources rather than citizenship," Colonel Robbins said, "and a refusal to believe that a nation exists only so long as its people are ready to defend it with their lives and that in the end the nations have perished, overcome by others in which the military and patriotic spirit of the people has not yet succumbed to the indulgence of wealth and the rainbow dreams of universal brotherhood of man."

"It is through the persistent attempts of misguiding men and women to substitute internationalism for nationalism, to weaken the defense of the nation by pacifist preaching, that the nation can be most rapidly destroyed."

"We have attained pinnacles of prosperity, high standards of living, gratification of every material need, and satisfaction of every desire, to an extent that no other nation in the world has today attained or is likely to attain."

deaf ear to the fallacies of internationalism and pacifism and hand this nation of ours down to our children with the same high principles of service and loyalty that our forefathers bequeathed to us."

LABOR LEADERS TO MOVE CENSURE OF GOVERNMENT

London, Nov. 8 (AP).—Although Lord Cusheendun, acting foreign secretary, has pronounced the Anglo-French naval compromise dead, labor leaders were determined today to move censure of the government in the House of Commons because of the accord.

Ramsay MacDonald, labor leader, outlined the position of his party by saying that the pact "was not an agreement to limit armaments; it was an agreement not to limit armaments. It sacrificed the most elementary considerations of Britain's safety except upon one sole consideration, that there would always be pooling of our navy and the navy of the country across the channel."

When the Laborite attack is launched in common Premier Stanley Baldwin will defend the government policy.

MEXICO BOYCOTTS THE NEWSPAPER EXCELSIOR.

Mexico City, Nov. 8 (AP).—The newspaper Excelsior has been boycotted by the Mexican government with the explanation that it made a here and a martyr out of Jose. He Leon Torralba, assassin of General Alvaro Obregon, in its handling of the story of Torralba's trial.

An official statement, which was published by all newspapers except Excelsior, said that the boycott was on the part of the government to insure the independence of the press against the government and to insure the independence of the press against the government.

Excelsior called the boycott "a shameful act" and said it would continue to publish its news regardless of the government's action.

80TH BOMB OF YEAR REPORTED IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, Nov. 8 (AP).—Politics flared back into the Thirteenth ward today when a bomb wrecked the front of the Thompson-Crowe Republican headquarters on Wentworth avenue. It was the 80th bomb of the year in Chicago.

Ernest Geisler, who has a real estate office in the same building, suggested that police talk to Hugh Norris, ward committeeman and ward leader for the Thompson-State's Attorney Crowe, faction of the Republican party.

Norris said he did not know who threw the bomb. He recalled, however, that the courts are still attempting to determine whether he or John (Dinabari) Obera was elected committeeman last April.

"I refused to support Obera for state senator at Tuesday's election," Norris said, "and you may have noticed he wasn't elected."

The ward, normally Republican, voted 50 per cent Democratic Tuesday.

It was predicted today by astronomers at the Yerkes Observatory, Williams Bay, Wisconsin. On that night the earth moves into the Astral realm of the Leonid meteors, believed to be the remnants of a comet.

The Leonid group, it was explained by Prof. Edwin B. Frost, director of the observatory, which around the sun in an orbit that crosses the earth's. Every November the earth meets it in an interval of 33 years. The earth passes squarely through the center of the Leonid orbit.

A Christmas Message for Thoughtful Men

Considerate men everywhere are trying to decide on Christmas gifts that will mean more than they have in the past. We have a happy solution to the problem, a solution that will save drudgery, time, and early wrinkles for wives and mothers. We have in mind a modern, sanitary, advanced plumbing installation for your kitchen—a step-saving kitchen sink, perhaps, with built-in dishwasher, in the striking new color mode, if you like.

Or a bathroom after the modern idea—a built-in tub, with shower attachment, or shower compartment, and improved and beautiful lavatory and toilet.

Every wife and mother, and every member of the family will bless the giver of such worth-while things every day.

NOW is the time to think about them for this Christmas. We will come out, either day or evening, and tell you about the new models, the cost, and terms—without any obligation whatever.

The SANDMAN STORY

THE CONTENTED HORSE

"ODAY," said the policeman's horse to some of the other horses, "we had a picnic—my master and I."

"A picnic?" the horses exclaimed in their own fashion. "Neigh, neigh! Weren't you on duty today?"

"Yes, we were on duty, but we had a picnic, too," the horse answered. "I'll have to tell you about it," he said.

"An automobile came along and in it were some people. That's the usual way, of course."

"An automobile doesn't come along by itself."

"But no matter, you understand me! The people in the automobile asked my master how to get to a place where they wanted to have their picnic."

"There were a number of children and they had a fine dog with them, too."

"They told my master that when they stopped at their picnic grounds"

"You All Know What I Think of My Master."

the dog sat on the step along the side of the automobile so that people passing by would know that he was not a stray dog looking for food but that he was really a part of the picnic party.

"They said he always did this except for a few moments now and then when he went for a run or a swim or chasing sticks."

"My master and the people chatted for quite a few moments and then my master told them how to get to the place they wanted to reach."

"Before they left they offered my

master some candy and my master said:

"Thank you, and my horse will have one if you don't mind. He loves sweet things. He has what is known as a 'sweet tooth'."

"Well, they fixed up a little box and in it were some pieces of cake and some candy and some sugar as a special treat for me."

"Of course I get sugar very often but it is always a 'special treat' for me."

"Then they hurried on."

"But my master and I had a picnic between busy times. Oh, it was such fun!"

"My master told the people that I was brave but that I was enough of a 'child' to care for sweets."

"And he said he was a 'child' that way, too. But he didn't say anything about his bravery, and of course they couldn't understand me."

"I think perhaps they knew by the way I looked that I was pretty devoted to my master and I think perhaps they had an idea he was brave."

"For he looks so splendid and he has such a fine face. But then you all know what I think of my master."

"After they had gone on we nibbled at something good every once in awhile."

"Oh, yes, we had our picnic, the master and I."

"And the master stroked me and patted me as he does so often, and I thought, just as I think so often, how splendid to have such a master."

"They say I do my work well and that I'm filled with courage and wisdom, but kindness and good treatment have helped me more than anyone knows."

"I should have liked to have told the people these things and I should have liked to have told them of the little girl my master saved the other day—she would have been run over if it hadn't been for my master, and he risked his life, too."

"Oh, I should have liked to have told them so many, many things he has done."

"For sometimes it seems to me that the brave things the master has done are so particularly, unusually, beautifully brave!"

"Yes, I wished today I could speak. I don't need to speak to the master. He understands. He knows what I want and how I feel and how much I love him."

"But he doesn't seem to know how magnificently brave he is. It comes to him so naturally, I suppose."

PERIL OF CONTENTMENT

THE difference between Europe and America is that "Most of Europe has the horse and buggy idea. If the people of the shops and farms could be stimulated into dissatisfaction they would all have cars, phonographs, radios and what-not." In other words, dissatisfaction paralyzes ambition. It eliminates the element of need. A satisfied person seldom wants anything. The sense of need kindles the fires of energy and purpose. Hunger calls for food, education for books, friendship for human contacts and love for home and a successful economic career. In the absence of a vivid sense of need lethargy and indifference prevail.

As civilization develops needs are increased. The fact that we want something hard enough to go out and work for it explains much of the progress of our time. Whether we actually need many of these things is another question. Perhaps we would be better off without them, but the fact that we are sure we need them, or think we do and therefore must have them at all cost, stimulates energy, will power and brain cells.

The sense of need has paved the way to many a fortune. Find a public need and the way to satisfy it and fortune will soon smile upon you. Our own wonderful prosperity and unprecedented development is attributable very largely to the fact that we are seldom satisfied.

The following lines have been attributed to Goethe:

Rest is not quitting the busy career; Rest is the fitting of self to its sphere. 'Tis loving and serving the highest and best!

The artist who had never seen any picture but his own is not conscious of mistakes in his workmanship. He is content. But when he studies the works of the masters he is fired with a purpose to achieve larger things. He finds contentment in the struggle to attain. The one is the contentment of ignorance, the other of self-expression of the highest within him.

The Victory, famous flagship of Admiral Nelson, has been more admirably preserved than any other ship. She still acts as flagship of the British naval commander-in-chief at Portsmouth, where she has lain since 1912.

CALLING THEM "DRAGONS"

THE word "dragon" is now familiar in military parlance in this country as the name of a soldier, usually a cavalryman, heavily equipped. And our dictionary sanctions its use as a common noun. Yet it comes to us directly from an English regiment, the Dragons. The origin of the term in its first application to English troops, holds a colorful tale.

"Dragon" is a corruption of "dragon" on the dragon on the standard of the regiment. It was applied originally because of the short gun which these soldiers carried in earlier times, the spouting forth of whose fire was compared by the populace to fire belching dragons!

While it is true that dragons have appeared on the standards of armies since ancient times, the naming of the regiment which has popularized the word "Dragon" was inspired by the fire of its principal weapons, which by the way, can be seen in museums today.

Click Versus Clack

"Well, how do you like golf?" asked one man of another.

"Oh, all right," was the reply; "there's nothing sweeter than the click of the club when you hit a good ball; but I can't stand the clack of the club in the clubhouse."

Woodstockers In Art Exhibition

(By F. G. Clough.)

The Downtown Gallery at 13th street, New York city, has been showing paintings, drawings and lithographs by American artists sojourning in Paris, titling their exhibit "Paris by Americans." Unfortunately the exhibitors are not too well known; their work is in a key none too serious.

Perhaps Jules Pascin is one of the leaders of this group of younger artists who look to the French methods for power with which to startle their own countrymen. He shows two paintings in his impressionistic manner. Others included in the same category are Paul Burlin, Stuart Davis, Leon Kroll, Richard Laher, Clement Wenzelick and Arnold Wiltz. Laher has been doing better and better work the past two years. Wiltz, one of the Woodstock Independents, was detained abroad because of passport irregularities, and has made good use of his time. He also appears with drawings, along with Charles Locke. Among the lithographers is John Carroll, another Woodstocker, whose characteristic hardships have finally been rewarded by good fortunes; his work seems a bit too sarcastic and facetious to enroll him with important artists. Adolf Dehn and Yasuo Kuniyoshi conclude the list with lithographs of interest.

For the person who wants to know why Americans continually paint in the European manner, the Downtown Gallery has given a series of lectures on the modernism of the artists of the "modernists," the studio group of which Wiltz, "Paris by Americans" was of sufficient interest to give the Downtown Gallery impetus for their third year's showings.

Of five women who attempted to fix across the Atlantic, one was successful, one was rescued at sea and three were lost. And one who intended to try but did not now blames the weatherman, when in fact she owes him a debt of thanks.

Ornithologists call attention to the fact that a tremendous decrease has taken place in the English sparrow population during the last year or two. And there's something else that no bird's head to stay up nights to worry about.

Worth $5000

A walnut tree was held to be worth $5,000.00 by a district judge in Nebraska in a suit filed against a sawmill company by the owner of the tree, who charged that the tree was cut down without his permission. The tree was four feet wide at the base and ten feet high.

Of course, walnut is now a valuable wood, and is used a great deal for furniture. Mahogany, however, is sneaking up on walnut for use in the dining room, and we are selling an equal number of both mahogany and walnut at present. We are showing a nice line of dining room suites, both in walnut and mahogany.

Trade is good this month and many young couples are being fitted out by us. No trouble whatever to show goods.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Business Girls Go to School

There was a jolly time at the Wednesday night supper of the Business Girls' Club held at the Y. W. C. A. on Wednesday evening, for they all went to school.

It being the first Wednesday of the month, there were reports from the secretary, Miss Eva Rand, and from the treasurer, Miss Eva Shook.

Then the teachers' committee put on their program. Miss Cordes as Miss Stratford-on-Avon and Miss Ethel Salzmunn as Miss Westminster Abbey having the affair in charge. And their affair proved to be "school."

with four distinguished guests, Mrs. Walter-Belmont, Mrs. Fitch-Wad-Taxes, Mrs. West-Spend-Money and Mrs. Paul Funder. Miss Westminster Abbey had all the pupils and guests who had stood quite soldier-like while they waited the flag and recited their allegiance to the same in a very creditable manner. Then they sang one verse of America quite easily.

The first exercise was a spelling match for backward pupils, and since they were backward they had to spell the words given out backward, which caused gales of merriment in which excitement Miss Stratford-on-Avon lost count as to which side won the match, but nobody cared for they had had their fun.

Then came two quite astonishing "examination" papers, with some fifty questions. If the spelling match was fun, those questions and their answers were twice as much fun, and called forth shouts of laughter, especially when it could not be decided which one had won the prize because nobody, including the teachers, knew all of the answers.

At the close of the supper program, Miss Mollie Shaker gave the girls a most interesting travel talk on her recent trip through the western National Park, with many beautiful post cards illustrating the talk.

Won't Insure Talkative

Explaining why Miss Fannie Ward, the actress who lost a diamond bracelet worth $50,000, could not obtain insurance, a leading London insurance man stated that actresses are too talkative to make good risks. It is part of their business, he said, to adorn themselves with jewelry, and being actresses, they tell everybody about it. In a few instances policies have been granted actresses at high premium rates.

Large Demand for Gas — tends to lower the price

EACH year finds new uses for gas in the manufacturing industries. There are also each year greater economies possible in the manufacture and distribution of gas, resulting from intense research in these phases of the industry. By reason of this combination the unit cost of gas has a distinct tendency to decrease.

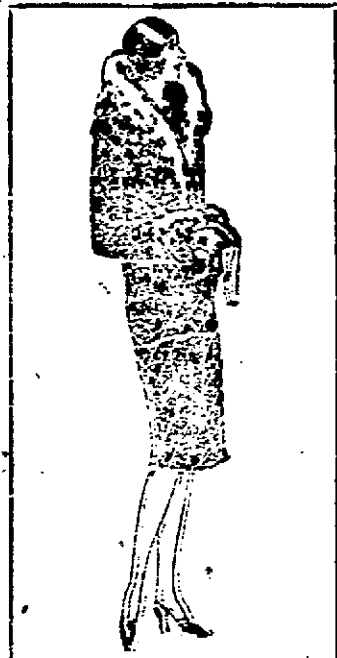

Scientifically constructed furnaces now make gas available for many industrial purposes where formerly, for economic reasons, it was not used. The American Gas Association, of which we are a member, has appropriated half a million dollars for the purpose of applying a scientific laboratory test on gas burning furnaces, and designing and developing new ones to fit specific needs.

Because our industrial gas engineers continually keep informed on developments in gas usage, they are able to suggest heating methods which will not only improve your product but will also lower your unit production costs. Ask them to study your present heating problems when they call on you.

Do your brakes ADD... to the DIN of traffic?

Drive a new Century Hupmobile and note the difference

Silence is so much a built-in feature of steelbraided brakes, first adopted by Hupmobile a year ago, that the contrast is startling with other cars. Thousands who are driving their first Hupmobiles tell us that now, for the first time, they enjoy positive brake action without trace of squeak or chatter. Hupmobile brakes have 6 times the clearance of average brakes. Dragging or brake friction is thus eliminated and effective power increased from 10 to 15 per cent. In addition, the special molded asbestos lining of Century brakes has three times the life of ordinary brake lining. Cars have been driven for 18 months without a single brake adjustment. These are facts you should know in selecting your next car. They will lead you straight to Hupmobile for the finest of mechanical qualities as well as undisputed leadership in style and beauty.

Forty-two body and equipment combinations, standard and custom, on each line. Six of the Century list prices: $1345 to $1645, plus delivery charges. Century Eight list prices: $1825 to $2125, plus delivery charges.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES AT ZENA COUNTRY CLUB

The Halloween party given at the Zena Country Club-house on Wednesday evening for members and their friends was full of fun and many surprises. Games of all description were played and afforded many a good laugh on the participants. The clubhouse was most tastefully decorated. A most pleasant surprise was in store for the officers of the club when a table beautifully decorated with flowers and candies was revealed already set for serving supper to them. A typical Halloween supper was then served to all, consisting of Waldorf salad, sandwiches, cake and cider, pickles and olives.

The committee of arrangements, Mrs. Howard Harcourt, chairman; Mr. Harcourt, Miss C. Carnright, Miss D. Allen and Clifford Carnright, deserved great credit and appreciation for their untiring efforts to make the party a success. Following supper there was dancing for the folks and the club orchestra was out in full strength.

There will be a dance at the clubhouse on Saturday evening, November 10, and music will be furnished by the club orchestra and Pete Dolce.

The regular monthly meeting of the Z. C. C. was held at the clubhouse last Friday evening with a splendid attendance. Messrs. Chauncey Van DerMark and Palmer Carnright were voted in as new members of the club. Following the meeting the third game of the popular pinocle tournament was played. The winners for the evening were Mrs. A. Holmster and Fred Thais, and consolation prizes, Mrs. L. Hibban and Arthur Hung. Refreshments were served.

New York. One of the amusing features of current fashion is that things are rather rarely what they seem. A coat may turn out to be a dress or vice versa. A coat may even be fashioned to look like a suit or for that matter an ensemble, especially since it has become the fashion to add a skirt to the coat.

Although there have been used on coats before now, one does not usually associate them with coats. They have become, however, a favorite form of fastening, particularly well thought of as a finish for the collar, as in fur or fabric.

There is always the exception which proves the rule, but the coat of the season is the furred model, this being true of fur as well as cloth and velvet varieties.

the lace glove. Molyneux has made an effort to revive this relic of past coquetties, the version being, however, with fingers instead of without. They are in open mesh effects finished by a tiny crocheted edge and are sponsored in black and a natural linen tone. There have been rumors of the black evening glove from time to time, for it is written on the wall that gloves for evening must return with the bustle and other indications of more stilted styles.

In keeping with the mesh glove is the mesh stocking, also for evening. It comes also as something of a throwback to read of a rival of white gloves for formal afternoon affairs. True the white glove developed as a summer fad but few prophets predicted it as a winter fashion.

5246. Quite swaggy is the model here pictured. Vest portions finished with pointed lower edges, are outlined by jacket portions, finished with convenient pockets. A coat sleeve and round collar complete the upper portions of this style. The trousers are the usual straight model, with side closing. Black velvet with vest and collar of white pique or corduroy will be an attractive combination for this suit. It is also good in two tones of brown tweed or flannel, and nice in jersey weaves, or suitable wash materials.

The Challenge Flavor Test proves that even these supermen cannot, through their sense of taste, choose between the most expensive spread-for-bread and Jelke GOOD LUCK Margarine.

JELKE
GOOD LUCK
MARGARINE

NO other profession requires the keenly developed senses and perfect co-ordination of nerves demanded of the intrepid air pilots who daily, through all kinds of weather, fly from Chicago to the four corners of the land.

Foremost of the great lines carrying mail and passengers is the National Air Transport Company. Above is shown one of its planes at the Chicago Municipal Airport. In the foreground a group of aviators are making the famous Challenge Flavor Test.

Having been served with samples of both, they were asked to tell which they had tasted first—whether Jelke GOOD LUCK or the most expensive spread-for-bread.

And again, was exploded a false notion held by some housekeepers, for none could answer. Not one could tell which was which.

LAST NIGHT on the RADIO

Reception Wednesday afternoon and evening was excellent, with DX quite strong. Since it put on 50,000 watts WLW at Cincinnati has become a fairly reliable daylight station and can be heard any afternoon with about the same volume as WOL. Its dial position is midway between WOL and WJR. For some reason WLW has always been heard well here and even before it added power was often heard in the afternoon.

Among the especially good DX stations Wednesday evening were WLS, WBM, WTAM, WGN, KDKA, WSAI and WJR. And this in spite of the buzzer, which began to buzz at about 8 o'clock.

Reception of election returns Tuesday evening was very good and the arrangements were admirable.

As a prelude to the Harvard-Yale game Saturday the Socorundia Sketch Tuesday night traces the evolution of football at Harvard in a series of episodes. The occasion marks the fifty-third anniversary of the first Harvard-Yale game. Football yells are shown to have characterized the game ever since the Puritans found the Indians playing a rollicking game with a stuffed deer-skin on the beach, when the goal lines were a mile apart, and the ocean occasionally converted the game into water polo. Opening with the game at Harvard in 1842, the second episode, almost twenty years later, shows the sport quietly and peacefully slain by the faculty of Harvard College, on July 2, 1860.

"Songs of the Late War" will be featured in the Old Company program for Sunday, November 11th, at 7 o'clock. Reinold Werrenrath, one of America's foremost baritone, will give an interesting outline of the historical background of each of these songs. These stirring compositions are musical tributes to the heroic units of the Allies in the World War.

Frank J. Black, pianist, composer, and conductor, the Hollickers quartet and Lewis James, the radio tenor, will present a program consisting of symphonic arrangements of popular numbers in the Frigidaria Hour of the General Motors Family Party on Monday evening, November 12.

Leonard H. Nason, noted American author, recognized by the millions who served in France, as one of the most faithful delineators of thrills, the dullness, the grinding routine of the everyday life of the doughboy, will be an added attraction in the Stetson Shoe Parade program on the N. B. C. network Sunday, November 11. The Stetson Shoe broadcast will bring to the listener a recreation of the wild scenes in the streets of Paris on the first armistice day, ten years ago.

The regular Atwater Kent Hour, 9:15 to 10:15, on Armistice Day, November 11, will be devoted to a special patriotic program presenting addresses by President Coolidge and General Pershing, and music by the United States Army Band, under the auspices of the American Legion. The Armistice Day observance will then continue with patriotic selections by the Atwater Kent Quartet, including song favorites of the soldiers—Over There, Tipperary, Madelon, The Long Long Trail, Roses of Picardy, Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag, and others. Following the Star Spangled Banner by the Army Band, the Atwater Kent Orchestra, under the leadership of Josef Pasternack, will open with Sousa's popular Stars and Stripes Forever, after which the operatic star of the concert will be introduced.

Mme. Maria Kurenko, the famous Russian coloratura soprano, will sing as her first number Alleluia, from the Motet, Esultate, to be followed by the popular coloratura aria from The Barber of Seville, Una voce poe fa—A Little Voice I Hear. She will later sing a group of popular songs—Irish Folk Song, Pierrot and Little Boy Blue. The Atwater Kent Orchestra will play as an interlude the Nubian

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By the Associated Press)

Paris—Cecile Sorel, famous actress, who in private life is the Vicomtesse Guillaume De Sorel, is to auction her bed which was used by Mme. DuBarry 150 years ago. This is going on the block with the rest of Cecile's antiques. She will use the proceeds to refurbish her house with the products of contemporaries.

New York—One of the "Magical Morgan" twins is to visit this country for the first time since she became a Peeress. Thelma Morgan Converse Furness, Viscountess, is en route with her sister, Mrs. Rexnald C. Vanderbilt. They are to lease an apartment till after Christmas.

London—Lord Charles Cavendish, younger son of the Duke of Devonshire, is going to New York to study banking, a portrait of an ancestor, Lady Betty Compton, was sold recently to an American for some $500,000.

St. Louis—Business as usual right after election. Having voted for the winner, Lindbergh promptly took to the air for Mexico.

New York—Experts who spent all summer in the Tennessee mountains, to photograph lightning hitting super-power lines have a $75,000 autograph. That's what it cost to get a record of one bolt.

Harrisburg, Pa.—Twelve persons have been killed and 71 injured so far in the state's hunting season.

New York—Allan Dwan, motion picture director, is to pay his former wife, Pauline Bush Dwan, $10,000 a year and establish a fund to guarantee payment. She sued him under an agreement by which she was to receive a percentage of his earnings up to $25,000 a year.

Toronto—Wonder what Lady Astor and the three Ruths of the U. S. A. think. Lady Chamberlain, wife of Sir Austen, says: "So far I do not think women in parliament have any influence."

New York—Children here are to teach English to their foreign-born parents under supervision of public school teachers. Children in ten schools are to be given leaflets for a course of 41 lessons, which it is expected will enable parents to pass the literacy test for citizenship.

New York—The Mayor of Goshen is going to seek action, as soon as congress is called, in order to avert what seems to him a grave menace to feminine rights. He writes the New York World of his perturbation over information given him that girls in Albany, by order of the Board of Education, must wear full length stockings. In Goshen, he made a ruling that if girls were compelled to pull up boys must do likewise and cease the collegiate custom of wearing no karters. But he has rescinded the order and declared an open season on collegiate socks until Easter.

H-O PART OF SUPPLIES FOR BYRD EXPEDITION

The Hecker H-O Company of Buffalo has sent out facsimiles of an order from the Dyrd Antarctic expedition for 600 pounds of H-O Oats (Quick) and 300 pounds of H-O Oats (Quick) which was bought as part of the supplies to be used by the expedition on its trip to the South Pole. The company, naturally, regards this order as an endorsement from a very high source of the quality of its products. H-O was selected in competition with other oatmeal brands on its merits with no other inducement whatsoever. This is another proof that H-O will always sell itself in competition with any other oats when a fair comparison is made between them.

Barbers to Meet Tonight.
The Master Barbers are going to have a get-together meeting to welcome National Organizer Dan Murphy, who will deliver an important address pertaining to their barber profession, and many other things will be discussed. ## Animals Gifted With Instinct Denied Man?

Animals seem to be gifted with prophetic instinct, and have foreboding edge of impending disaster.

An hour before the Thames flood, says an article in Pearson's Weekly, which did such dreadful damage in London, mice were noticed running up a certain on the ground floor of a house in Westminster. Some have attempted to explain this by saying that water was already penetrating the mouse holes in the basement, but that is not likely, for it will be remembered that the flood came with one rush when the embankment wall gave way.

Besides, there are other cases of premonition—as it is called—on the part of animals, which cannot be explained away. One day in August, 1922, an army of squirrels, numbering several hundred, was seen traveling through the trees in the Fox hills near Aldershot.

They crossed a road and took up their quarters in a wood half a mile beyond. Two days later a fire broke out a mile away from the wood which the squirrels had vacated, and reaching that wood it burned it out completely, but stopped on reaching the road which the squirrels so short a time previously had crossed.

When the Lord created something out of nothing he must have used printer's ink.

Leroy & Rogers At Victory Ball

As the "surprise" act of the gala
entertainment at the American Legion Victory Ball, at the armory on next Monday night, the committee has been fortunate in securing the appearance of two young men who are rapidly coming to the front in the realm of the silent drama—two moving picture artists of an unusual and entertaining nature. These boys have returned from Hollywood, where they have been working on a Paramount picture which will be a feature of the later season.

The entertainment committee of the Victory Ball has persistently declined to furnish any description of this act, merely saying that "You'll

ever, that the meticulous dressers
of the younger set will do well to see Leroy & Rogers if they want to see a display of sartorial splendor
rivaling "Solomon in all his glory."

Bob Willis, a noted humorist, will be master of ceremonies, and will introduce each of the five acts that make up the unusual entertainment
which will be an important part of this Armistice Day celebration.

The entertainment will start at 8:15 and will last until 9:45. Immediately at its close, all Legionnaires in the large audience will pitch in, fold up and clear away the hundreds of chairs, and Jimmie Caruso will wave his famous baton,
and his New York Society Orchestra
start the ball. Dancing should be under way by 9:50, and will last uninterruptedly until 2 a. m., with music by Caruso's New York and Erne's
Kingston orchestras.

Trench Coat Is Good for Knockabout Wear

The increasing vogue for the trench
coat has proved to everybody's satisfaction that here is a style that is practical, wearable and smart—and evidently here to stay, for a while at least.

Knowing this, an American designer
adapted it, keeping the tailored smartness of the original yet making
it up in a heavy soft woolen that looks like the polo cloth that has made so many smart sports coats in the past.

Warm, yet light in weight, it is the perfect knockabout coat for brisk weather. And it is surprising how this fleecy woolen adapts itself to the same lines affected so successfully by
the drill that made the trench coats.
The color is that lovely soft tan
shade that appears in woolsens of this character. Beautiful workmanship
and tailoring add greatly to its smartness. And it is such a necessary adjunct to any sports garment.

English women, who are famous for
the casualness of their sports clothes,
will have a coat of this general type
and wear it season after season. One English sports woman of note says
that she avoids the wearing of anything which feels "new," and that every garment should feel as though it had grown with you rather than
have been purchased the day before.

Zoroaster's Paradise

Mount Demavend, Persia.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

ANYONE who has carefully examined a map of Asia has probably noticed as one of the few designated features of the portion occupied by Persia the rather striking name, Mount Demavend. The emphasis given to this spot by the absence of many other defined locations
throughout the country is quite in keeping with its size, magnitude and importance.

Demavend, which outcrops in proportions any mountain in Europe, is the highest peak in southwestern Asia, for it rises to an altitude of nearly 20,000 feet above sea level.
Whether viewed through the mists
from the Caspian sea or in the clear,
thin air of the Iranian plateau, its
snow-capped volcanic cone, is a vision of surpassing splendor. But to realize its full grandeur one must see it from
the crest of a neighboring range,
where the eye can take in with a single sweep the unbroken rise from base to summit, or from some point
a hundred miles southward across the desert, where it still dominates the hazy horizon long after the rugged outlines of its surrounding ranges
have dissolved in the distance.

It is to be wondered at that such a superb landmark should hold a prominent place from the earliest times in the legend and the superstition of the Iranian peoples.

As Mount Olympus in Greece was
the home of the gods, so the paradise
of Zoroaster was the summit of Demavend
in Persia. Many legends have developed from its mysterious, fear-
inspiring grandeur.

Not only has this great mountain
held a lofty place in mythology, but it has cast its far-reaching shadow
over many epoch-making events in history. Almost at its very base (in the Median metropolis of Rhages) was born the mother of Zoroaster. It marks the eastern limit of the raids
of the Assyrians before the rise to power of the great kings of Persia,
and its frowning eastern face overlooked the mountain home of the rising Parthian empire. Alexander the Great paused beneath it in his pursuit
of Darius III and sent expeditions
through the neighboring passes to subdue the almost impenetrable regions of Hyrcania. Following in his footsteps came Antiochus the Great against the Parthians, and westward along this same route Genghis Khan, Hulagu
Khan and Tamerlane led their ravaging Mongol hordes.

Guidepost for Caravans.

Rising not far from a great international highway, Demavend has served as a gigantic guidepost for scores of generations of daring merchants, who,
long before Columbus, exchanged the wares of the West and the East by means of their slow-crawling caravans;
and its lonely grandeur has gripped
the imagination of intrepid adventurers of all ages. Within its shadow a score of great dynasties
have risen and fallen, and today it stands as one of the few remaining glories of the Persian empire.

The Elburz mountain range, of which Demavend is an outstanding member, is a unit in the great mountain system that stretches from southern Europe to central Asia, and, with regard to Persia, is the great dividing line between the northern limits of the Iranian plateau and the Caspian depression—a 12,000-foot wall separating a basin 81 feet below sea level
from a tableland averaging 4,000 feet
in altitude. Beginning near Ardabil,
in Azerbaijan, it extends southeast-
ward and eastward more than 500
miles along the southern shores of the Caspian and into Khorasan.

This great mountain wall gives northern Persia the anomaly of two almost contiguous but quite different climates. The moisture of the Caspian basin is excluded from the interior,
resulting, on the northern side, in a semi-tropical climate, with an annual rainfall of over 50 inches and luxuriant orange groves and crops of rice and cotton, and, on the mountain-sides themselves, dense forests of hardwood, while the southern escarpment
is barren and supplies scarcely enough water for the narrow but fertile desert fringe at its base, with its crops of grain and fruits of the temperate zone.

Demavend itself is about 45 miles northeast of Teheran, in the central of three parallel chains. It towers
high above these flanking mountains,
whose summits do not exceed two-
thirds its elevation, the only mountain

peak among endless series of ridges.
Its conical form and seemingly even slope of about 45 degrees from top
to bottom at once indicate its volcanic nature.

Lofty but Not Hard to Climb.

Strange to say, the exact altitude of Demavend still remains uncertain.
Numerous measurements have been made, ranging from 18,000 to over 22,000 feet, an average of the most reliable giving an altitude of about 19,000, though the single measurement
commonly accepted is 18,404 feet.

For a mountain of this size, the ascent cannot be considered especially difficult, there being few obstacles
other than the cold, the rarity of the atmosphere, and fatigue.

Late summer, with its settled weather
and minimum of snow, is, of course,
the best time of the year for the ascent. Although Teheran, the nearest large city, is the logical point of departure, the precipitous nature of the western steep necessitates a circuitous approach. A three-day trip takes one across the first range of mountains by the Alchek pass, with an elevation of 9,000 feet; then, between the two ranges, down the well-watered Lar valley, which during its brief
summer season supports the flocks and herds of nomadic tent-dwellers, who pass their winters in the plain villages
south of Teheran, and skirting the southern base of the mountain itself,
to the village of Rema, above the canyon east of Demavend.

This mountain village, which has an elevation of about 6,000 feet, makes an excellent base, for from this point
a well-defined trail winds upward
7,000 feet, to where a few shepherds
pasture their flocks on the green,
moist areas immediately below the snowfields.

This part of the ascent, made either
on horse or mule back or afoot, requires the better part of a day, during the early hours of which it is necessary to grope one's way through heavy cloud banks. It is a glorious moment, however, when a sudden movement of the clouds clears the sky and reveals the summit, its great golden cap of sulphur glowing in the sunlight, seemingly so near in the dry, clear atmosphere that one is deceived into thinking that the climb is almost over.

The ascent from this temporary
camp to the crater requires about ten hours of actual climbing; so, however,
one arranges it, part of the trip up or down must be made at night. Although with nightfall the cold becomes extremely severe, there is the compensation of enjoying the wonderfully luminous moonlight of Persia under very unusual conditions.

No Big Glaciers to Traverse.

Considering the aridity of the region, it is not surprising that there are no great glaciers to be traversed;
but the remains of glacial formations,
in particular one immense chasmlike
groove, at the head of which is a huge immovable ice mass, suggest that at one time the country enjoyed a more salubrious climate. The angle of the incline varies only from 40 to 55 degrees, thus rendering the ascent as monotonous and tiring as that of an endless ladder.

The sliding, shifting fields of powdered pumice not far below the summit seriously obstruct progress, for the climbing here is similar to what one would encounter in trying to ascend a steep roof covered with two feet of loose snow. Although it requires one and one-half hours for this portion of the ascent, the descent
over the same ground is easily made
in four minutes.

The expanse of the great golden sulphur cap, the edge of which is reached a hundred yards below the rim of the crater, is startling. Thousands of tons of sulphur are exposed to view
and the fumes which permeate the air are almost nauseating.

The lofty isolation of the great peak
makes it an admirable observation
point. On a clear day the country spreads out in every direction like a giant relief map on which a comprehensive view of the whole complex arrangement of mountain chains and
drainage systems replaces the restricted vision of one on the plains. Close at hand the great inter-mountain valleys and far away to the south the green desert fringe and the vast desert
itself are visible, while to the north
tower the mists and vapors that rise
over the Mazandaran jungles and the Caspian sea.

Bloody Century

Some nations in Europe have been at war on an average of every second year since 1450, but the Nineteenth century had more than its share of these wars. They were also much more costly and destructive.

Licenses Revoked And Suspended

Charles A. Harnett, commissioner of motor vehicles, revoked or suspended 793 certificates of automobile registration and driving licenses
during the two weeks ended October 31. In New York city and vicinity
there were 504 revocations and 111
suspensions and in other parts of the state 109 revocations and 69 suspensions.

In the Albany district, which includes Kingston and vicinity, there were 23 revocations and 18 suspensions. Those in this locality affected by the commissioner's action
were Floyd Williams, Rhinebeck, license revoked for driving a car while intoxicated; Amell Brothers, 27
O'Neil street, Kingston, license suspended for improper use of plates,
and Major Sanders, Saugerties, license suspended on a charge of being an unlicensed operator.

Prospecting by Radio

Precious metals are being discovered by a "radio" apparatus claimed to have been invented by a Catholic priest of France. "Every metal gives off a definite wave length, and my instrument is adjusted to pick them up,"
the priest explained. Gold, platinum
and silver will be found, it is hoped,
in large quantities within a few miles
of the Franco-Swiss border and in the Pyrenees. A dozen sacks, each containing a different metal, were buried at various points in a field from 8 to 10 feet deep. The instrument not only revealed the depths, it is said, but identified the metals.

Pyro Stains

Pyro developer stains are extremely difficult to remove from fabrics, but it is sometimes possible to bleach them
out by the use of hydrogen peroxide.
This should be followed with a weak
solution of hyposulphite of soda, and then rinsing in cold water. The moist fabric should be exposed to strong sunlight. The trouble is that what will remove a strong stain will generally remove the dye of the fabric
as well.

Salts Cause a Crust

Nearly every one has noticed the white formation that sometimes dis-
colors brick walls, particularly after a season of damp weather. The crust is caused by the solidification on the surface of various kinds of chemical salts that become dissolved within the brick and gradually seep to the surface. Usually the formation disappears after a few seasons, as the salts
gradually are washed away.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

STOWAWAYS ARE TOUGH PROBLEM

Many Hundreds Make Attempts to Enter U. S. in Variety of Ways.

New York.—In strange ways and places, often defying death and always facing deportation if caught, the tide of stowaways, lured by America as the "land of promise and opportunity," continues to flow from every foreign port to New York. They travel thousands of miles, hiding in crates, near boilers, in lifeboats, and in other uncomfortable places, with a meager supply of food, on the slim chance that they may be able to slip into this country undetected when the ship arrives in port. Nothing, not even the danger of death, deters them from making the attempt.

Recently, on the Hamburg-American liner Cleveland, there arrived from Düsseldorf, Germany, a nineteen-year-old youth, called into a packing crate consigned C. O. D. to a fictitious New York address. Equipped with his passport and a visa as a quota immigrant, the youth found himself without sufficient funds to pay for his ocean passage. So with the help of a friend, who nailed him into it, he constructed the box and chose that unusual way of coming to America.

Is Discovered.

He was discovered only after the box had been unloaded from the steamer. A checker, noticing a loose board on the case, thrust his hand in to investigate, and the young German, without thinking, shook it. The checker ran down the pier shouting that he had been bitten by an animal. The box was opened. The young German, somewhat emaciated, stepped out.

Officials of the Hamburg-American line stepped into the case, and instead of being deported to his land of origin the young man was allowed to enter the United States on the promise that he would repay the ocean passage when he was able to do so.

One of the most unusual examples of an ingenious device used to enter this country illegally came to light when the new Italian liner Conte Grande arrived in New York on her maiden voyage. After the ship had been searched several times by customs experts, an Italian, who said he was an interior decorator of Trieste, was arrested while going ashore.

Before being taken to Ellis Island prior to his deportation to his land of origin, he showed the customs officials a snug secret cabin in an alcove near the after first-class companion way. The decorator had worked on the liner four months for the builders at Monte Faucone, near Trieste, and had spent much of his working time in constructing the secret cabin. Inside the cabin was found all indications of comfort, including a bed, wash stand, bookcase, small table, chair, electric light, ventilator and carpet. The retreat was even supplied with wines, brands, mineral waters, food and fruit. Entrance to it was gained by a sliding panel, so skillfully concealed that it escaped the eyes of a special searching squad. The young Italian had provided for every contingency except that of getting off the liner in New York without being detected by the watchmen at the gangways.

Thought He Was a Ghost.
A ghost story of a white apparition which enjoyed prowling about the decks after nightfall arrived in New York city with the docking of the United Fruit liner Tivres recently. Members of the crew told how their slumbers had been disturbed by a "white spirit" which was seen so frequently that finally skeptics organized a search.

The "apparition" was discovered to be a sixteen-year-old Portuguese stowaway, who had boarded the vessel in a South American port to come to the United States in search of work. He had chosen a flour barrel for his hiding place.

The same steamer brought in two other stowaways, also Portuguese, who, when found, were as black as the sixteen-year-old youth was white. They were both middle-aged married men who had boarded the vessel hoping to find employment here. They had stowed themselves in the coal bunkers and when discovered had been without food for four days.

Probably the largest group of stowaways to come here on one ship was that of 32 men, distributed in various hiding places among the bales and boxes of the flaxseed cargo below decks of the British freighter Dunrobin when she arrived here not long ago from Santos, Brazil. One or two of the visitors, whose total number equaled that of the freighter's crew, confronted the astonished gaze of the vessel's captain when customs officials were examining the cargo. The 32 men, most of whom were of Portuguese or Spanish origin, were taken to Ellis Island under armed guard by immigration officials and deported.

Mingled With Passengers.

Ground, wearing a light blue and yellow jacket, the deck swamping a stowaway case, the stowaway was to appear again shortly. He was not to be seen by returning to the deck in the dining saloon, as he would have been quickly spotted in the dining up of the passengers by the person. Instead, he was to be seen in the dining up of the passengers by the person. Instead, he was to be seen in the dining up of the passengers by the person.

Another tragedy occurred when a French liner after a stormy trip. The body of one man was found in the coal which had shifted during the gale, then a second and a third, until finally 25 bodies were recovered. That was probably the greatest casualty list in stowaway history.

Several times New York harbor has seen a deported stowaway leap over the rail of the ship that was taking him back in a final effort to enter this country by swimming. Sometimes they succeed in outracing a revenue cutter and reach the shore of Staten Island. More often they drown in the swiftly swirling waters of the Hudson.

The girl stowaway, too, is becoming a serious problem to steamship companies and the immigration officials in their efforts to bar all illegal entrants into this country. Occasionally the woman stowaway dresses herself in the attire of a man and escapes suspicion until her arrival in New York. One such case was discovered recently when a fight broke out between two others on a vessel and it transpired that one of them had brought his bride aboard clad in overalls and the second offer, discovering the fact, had tried to make love to her.

No Age Limit.

An Antwerp woman, hearing that her husband had met with an accident national. The three survivors, he hurried to the hospital, were found just in time.

Twenty-five Bodies Found.

Naked in the sweltering heat of summer, ten children were discovered on a sugar ship from Cuba when she anchored in New York harbor. Six of them were already dead of suffocation. The vessel had been diverted from New Orleans to New York and they had had no food for days.

There is no limit to the age of those who catch the stowaway fever. They range from three years old to seventy. The boy stowaway presents perhaps the most romantic picture in all the gallery of stowaways of the sea.

Not long ago a fifteen-year-old Serbian boy landed in Boston in charge of the immigration authorities. In the past two years he had stowed away on more than a dozen freighters in a vain effort to reach the United States. He had been carried to South America, Japan, India, and to practically all the Mediterranean ports. At last he crept aboard a vessel of the Dollar line and hid under a tarpaulin hatch cover. Then a sailor stepped on him and his dream of concealment was abruptly ended.

Rides by Telepathy

A marvelous exhibition of riding on a dirt track while blindfolded, was given at the White City in London by a Frenchman, Gaston Overlen, who says he guides himself solely by telepathic directions sent him by his wife. With eyes completely covered, he rode a motor cycle around the track avoiding such obstacles as barrels and benches, while his wife sat among the spectators sending out the "mind waves."

Excitement in Texas Continues

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 8 (AP).—Opposing factions of both political parties in Texas, well warmed to their work by the campaign which closed Tuesday, caught their second wind today and refused to recognize the election as marking an armistice.

In Hidalgo county, where the Democratic party was opposed by the Citizens-Republican ticket also known as the "Independents" made up of both Democrats and Republicans, excitement attendant on the tabulation of the vote continued. Reports early today said the independent faction at McAllen had wired Governor Dan Moody asking the proclamation of martial law in the county. Rangers already are in the county, sent there to supervise the election.

Rangers accompanied a ballot box from Mercedes to Edinburg, the county seat, last night in order to make certain that it was not tampered with before the votes were counted.

The independent faction of that disturbed county recently sent about 2,000 telegrams to President Coolidge asking federal supervision of the election, and last night threatened to deluge the White House again because of dissatisfaction with methods used by election officials.

In the meantime the wounds which the campaign opened in the Democratic party, traditional ruler of this state, became more irritated instead of healing in the post-campaign relaxation.

Leaders of the bolters, who apparently have thrown the state to the Republican column in a national election for the first time in history, demanded the resignation of regular party leaders who, they charged are

"I've been interested in radio from the time it started. I've built sets myself and I've bought them. Sure, I've got good results—at least what I thought were good results until I tried this all-electric Atwater Kent."

"Honestly, I didn't think a set as small as this could have so much power, but let me tell you—the man who built the new Model 40 knows his job. I get stations on that FULL-VISION Dial that I thought existed only in the papers. And you can't beat it for tone and clarity. A violin sounds like a violin, and an organ sounds like an organ—not like a football game. Football? Sure, I'm listening in!"

Roosevelt Plans For Legislation

State Operation of Water Power, Farm Relief and Reorganization of Town and County Government His Principal Projects.

New York, Nov. 8 (AP).—Interrupting his preparations for departure tomorrow on a vacation trip to Warm Springs, Ga., Franklin D. Roosevelt, apparent winner of the gubernatorial race today outlined his plans for submission of legislation proposed in his campaign address and in the state platform.

State development of waterpower, farm relief, reorganization of county and town government and revision of the state's judicial system were the chief arguments of Roosevelt's campaign, and regarding his election as definitely assured he said he would begin work on the proposals during the latter half of what he expects to be a three or four weeks' vacation trip. He said he expected visits at Warm Springs from legislative leaders with whom he will consider the state budget and the program to be considered by the new legislature the first of the year.

Like Governor Smith, Roosevelt proposes the ownership and state development of waterpower at its site against development under lease to private interests. Roosevelt indicated he would seek the passage of laws guaranteeing permanent possession by the state of its power resources.

Roosevelt believes the farm relief problem must first be studied by a commission composed of those directly affected by whatever solution may be offered. He suggested as experts on the problem the State Grange, the college of agriculture, the commissioner of agriculture and markets, the New York State Agricultural Society, the agricultural experimental station, the New York State Forestry Association and similar organizations.

The proposed revision of the judicial system, Roosevelt said, should be undertaken by a commission composed of judges, lawyers and laymen, the last representatives being suggested as a means of assuring an equitable chance. Civil and criminal sides of county and state courts are recommended for study to the end that the judicial machinery may be speeded up, perjury and trivial suits eliminated, and more fundamental factors improved.

Through a reorganization of town and county government in some parts of the state, Roosevelt believes a marked saving in taxes may be obtained. During his campaign he said laws regulating such government were antiquated and kept in existence unnecessary and costly offices.

RHINEBECK PROGRAM ON ARMISTICE DAY

Armistice Day is to be observed in Rhinebeck by a great mass meeting to be held in the High School Auditorium on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. This meeting has been planned by a committee representing the League of Women Voters, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the American Legion and the Auxiliary, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Parent-Teacher Association, the schools and the churches of the community. The interest in the meeting has reached outside of the town and it is expected that many people from the surrounding country and cities will attend.

The purpose of the meeting is to give expression to the growing interest in worldwide peace and to have the opportunity to have the Kellogg Peace Pact interpreted and its importance to American national life explained. This will be done by the speaker, who will be Dr. Emerson D. Fite, professor of history at Vassar College. Professor Fite will be introduced by the Hon. A. Lee Stickle, mayor of Rhinebeck, who will preside at the meeting.

An interesting feature of the gathering will be the musical program arranged by the Rhinebeck Choral Society. The society will lead those present in the singing of patriotic songs and will render with a chorus of nearly fifty voices, God So Loved the World by Sir John Stainer and the stirring selection, Recessional by Kipling. There will be no admission charge or collection and all people will be welcome.

Our Growing Population. The following births have been reported to the board of health: Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Noonan, 365 Washington avenue, a son, James Vincent.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Buley, 200 Ten Broeck avenue, a daughter, Audrey.

Major Harvey to Make Clean Sweep

New York, Nov. 8 (AP).—A major of the famous "Lost Battalion" of the A. E. F. today was consolidating his forces for another fight to the finish in the heart of the enemy's country.

The major is George U. Harvey, who as a Republican alderman is in the strongly Democratic Borough of Queens unseated the $16,000,000 sewer scandal and in return has been elected by the borough as its first Republican president since greater New York was created.

"I'm after the crooks," said Mr. Harvey when his election became assured. And he added, "I'm going to get them!"

It was Alderman Harvey's demand on Governor Smith for an investigation of the affairs of Maurice E. Connolly as Borough President and an investigation that resulted in his conviction of conspiracy to defraud the city. Connolly was sentenced to one year's imprisonment but is at liberty under bail pending an appeal.

Harvey was elected Borough President by a majority of about 4,000 over the present incumbent, Bernard M. Patton, his Democratic opponent, and his victory was one of the surprising upsets in the New York election.

The former major of the Seventy-seventh (New York) Division will hold the lone Republican vote in 16 on the New York Board of Estimate, but he indicated his particular job would be continuing the "clean up" of the Borough of Queens.

"When I walk into the Borough Hall on January 1, the old Borough crowd will trot out," he said, "if they don't, then they'll run out. It will be a clean sweep."

FARM BUREAU MAIL MEMBERSHIP CLIMBING

As a result of the statement sent to all Farm Bureau members less than a week ago, three hundred have already responded. This is slightly ahead of last year which set a record for "paid by mail" members. Nearly half of the expected number are in. Every community chairman is actively working to increase the number in his community.

The communities of Hurley and Ulster Park lead in the early returns, closely trailed by Marlborough, Milton and New Paltz. In others the number may be smaller, but the percentage of the membership in some is higher.

Apparently members realize the saving to their organization in sending in their dues. The majority cooperate in this way.

Ulster county can feel proud because its Farm Bureau has the third highest membership in the state on a $5 membership basis and has the highest percentage of its farmers as Farm Bureau members of any county in the state. This is an accomplishment over which the county, the village and the city folks can be proud.

OVER 150 HOME BUREAU MEMBERSHIP IN

The membership drive in the Ulster County Home Bureau is making rapid headway under the supervision of the vice chairmen in the various communities. More than 150 memberships have already come in to the office of the Ulster County Home Bureau and more are arriving on each mail. The communities are awake as they have never been before and it is now believed that the entire membership will be in before the end of the month. That is the goal that the Home Bureau started out to achieve this year.

Many memberships have been collected by local committee women that have not yet come to the office but at the time of going to press the new membership for 1929 from the various communities is as follows:

Hot Cross Buns

The pagan crossbuns eaten at the ancient spring festivals was made fit for the Christian Easter by marking it with a cross—and so we have the "hot cross bun." Parish clerks in parts of Dorset and Devon once earned a pleasant penny by carrying small, white cakes, very thin, and from five to eight inches in diameter, around to each house on Good Friday after service.

Famous Sculpture a Tribute to Loyalty

Because the attack of the citizens on the Tuileries in Paris on August 10, 1792, has been ably described by historians and authors, little can be added to make the picture complete, a writer in the Detroit News remarks. But at Lucerne, Switzerland, there is a monument that adds a detail, by no means least, to this picture of the overthrow of Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette.

This monument is known as the Lion of Lucerne and is the figure of a lion cut in the solid rock of a little park at one extremity of the city. The lion is sorely wounded with a broken spear, but is guarding with his dying strength a shield emblazoned with the fleur-de-lis of the Bourbons.

It is a monument to the courage and fidelity of the Swiss guard which was massacred by the French citizens in the revolt against their monarch. Louis gave orders to his guards that they were not to fire on the mob. It became so unruly, however, that the Swiss were forced to shoot and the action, believed by the revolutionists to have been prompted by the king, only increased the general feeling against Louis.

Reflected in a mirror-like pool which is just below it, the Lion of Lucerne, with the names of the Swiss guard beneath, pays mute tribute to their loyalty even to a foreign king.

Cake Has Long Held Place in Big Events

From birth to death man has made a cake the symbol of the great events of this human existence, although, neither the cake which signified the christening nor the cake that was eaten at the funeral could be partaken of by the one supposed to be thus honored, says Helen Buckler, in the New York Herald Tribune Magazine.

In often times guests at obsequies in Yorkshire were served light, sweetened cakes, washed down with hot spiced ale poured from a tankard in whose handle was stuck a piece of lemon peel, bespeaking the bitterness of death.

Or if the family were wealthy enough, wine replaced the ale, and savory biscuits were given out to be carried home wrapped in paper on which were printed crosses, skulls and crossbones, hour glasses or spades, tokens of mortality, and sealed with black wax.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 8 (AP).—The "Hoover Market," which has been a flying start yesterday, continued to press forward today, with an abundance of buying in the copper, oil, motor, steel, and other markets.
Fears that a general reaction would follow the initial reaction of the Hoover market, which dropped 2 to 3 points, but the market, in fact, continued upward, with gains ranging from 1 to 15 points.
Trading was conducted at such a terrific pace that the ticker had fallen one point behind the market by early afternoon. Sales crossed the 2,500,000 share mark before the end of the third hour.
With the directors of the General Motors Corporation meeting after the close of the market, that stock again became the center of speculative interest. Heavy buying carried it up more than 2 points to 22 1/2, but heavy profit-taking was encountered around that level, and part of the gain was cancelled.
All sorts of guesses as to the dividend action were circulated, with the majority of observers inclined to the belief that an extra cash dividend of $2.50 would be declared on the present stock, which would then be split up on a 2 for 1 basis. Mack Trucks and Chrysler also moved up smartly, and Brockway Motors attained a new peak.
Call money was plentiful at the new low of 5 per cent, but some unseasonable was apparent over the weekly Federal Reserve brokers' loan figures, to be published after the close.
Famous Players ran up 2 points to a new top at $2 1/2 on unconfirmed reports that the new stock would be placed on a $3 annual basis at the meeting next week.
Greene Cananea Copper ran up 3 1/2 points. New high prices in the copper group were established by American Smelting, Calumet and Hecla, Calumet and Arizona, Nevada, Inspiration, Granby and Howe Sound.
In the oil group, new highs were recorded by Midcontinent, White Eagle, Superior, Texas Coal and Oil, Shell-Union and Sams.
Colorado Fuel, Vanadium Steel, Midland Steel Products preferred, Wright Aeronautical and Otis Elevator sold 4 to 6 points higher.
Warner Bros. issues reacted 3 points and Kennecott, International Nickel and Woolworth each fell back 3 points before sufficient buying support was provided to check the decline.

LIGHTS KEEP HENS LAYING IN WINTER
Winter means early mornings to the hens that produce New York's egg supply.
It used to be that the season of short, dark days was a serious time for the pullet. If she laid an egg every three or four days, she had done her duty. But now modern efficiency methods have taken her in hand. Winter days are made as long as summer ones by electric lighting of the chicken houses, and the thousands of suburban poultrymen of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut are raking up profits at the season when prices are highest.
Just how the artificial lighting tools the hen into believing that winter never comes is explained in the Farm Journal by Leslie M. Black, poultry expert of the New Jersey Agricultural college, who reports on a six-month test made with 105 flocks of pullets.
Oddly enough, Mr. Black found that one method of lighting worked better than others and produced 10.7 more eggs per bird over the period of the test than when no lights were used.
"Three systems of lighting are most generally used," he explains. "The first is the 'evening lunch' system, when the houses are lighted for an hour at night, usually between 8 and 9, or 9 and 10. The second, or morning lights, plan consists of turning on the lights before dawn. The third plan is to use the lights both morning and evening so that the length of the day is made to equal absolutely the length of night."
"This last system seems to have given the best results. Under it the pullets averaged 83.6 eggs per bird for the period. It produced 10.7 more eggs per pullet than when no lights were used, 6.5 more than under the 'evening lunch' plan, and 1.3 more than the morning lights system."

Size of Male Is One-Half of the Turkey Flock
Like begats like, and there is an old saying that the male is one-half the flock, and he is easier to produce over standard in size than the female. But don't expect the male to overcome all the faults of undersized hens or poor matings. Again, do not mistake coarse bone for size. Avoid the long-legged crane-like specimen with no breasts. This is caused by breeding for size only and not properly mating. During the last few years, as conditions have improved, the price of turkeys has advanced with an increased demand. There seems to be a tendency to want extra large toms and some breeders have put too much stress on size only, when improperly mated, resulting in off-shaped birds which place them in the No. 2 class on the market.
Of course, size is a very important item and some of our best breeders have been able to attain weights up to 45 pounds in a yearling. Again many injure their birds for breeders by excessive fattening to attain weight to meet that demand for size.

Cater to Fancies
Notwithstanding that some of the whims and fancies of the market may seem ridiculous, it is the wise poultryman who caters to them. In making sales, appearance is a factor. A plump, neatly-dressed carcass, free from pin feathers, will attract the eye of the buyer. While quality of flesh is not necessarily guaranteed by yellow legs and yellow skin, the American market calls for it and should have it. He who quarrels with the demand of the market, or tries to reform it is working in his own light.

Good Green Feed
Alfalfa hay, preferably of the last cutting, provides winter green feed for poultry on the farm of P. D. Eames, Pottawatomie county, Iowa. Mr. Eames makes winter egg production a specialty.
"I have raised stock bees for my hens," said Mr. Eames, "but I saw no noticeable improvement in egg production. The hens seemed to produce just as well on green alfalfa as when the bees were used."

Poultry Breeds
There are a great many different breeds of chickens suited to various poultry raising conditions. In general the breeds are divided into four classes—American, Asiatic, English and Mediterranean. All birds of the American class, which includes the Plymouth Rock, Rhode Island Red, Rhode Island White, Wyandotte and Jersey Black Giant, have qualities which make them good producers of eggs and meat. However, the strain and breeder is most important.

Egg-Eating Habit
The egg-eating habit is started by birds getting a taste of eggs that have been broken. It usually starts when hens are not getting enough minerals and are laying soft-shelled eggs. Offenders usually can be picked out because they have egg yolk on their beak. These should be sold, eaten, or isolated from the flock. Oyster shell should be kept before the birds to supply lime. Darkened nests with plenty of straw will decrease the chances of eggs being broken.

Dickens Still Favorite
A world-wide canvass conducted by a British publishing house to ascertain "your favorite author" resulted in an overwhelming vote for Charles Dickens. Then followed Scott, Stevenson, Dumas and Thackeray.

Fashion Features

Furs for Season
Both Old and New Peltry Is Cut in Novel Ways; Caracul Popular.
Fashion in furs for the season has called into being many new pelts in widely diversified forms. The number of these is amazing, and a fashion writer in the New York Times, and shows the extent to which the Vogue for fur has increased. Where once a fur coat was a solid possession, of one or two heavy, low-slung women of fashion have for years worn a variety of furs, each of a different color, and many have before considered are now used for the different wraps, coats, trimmings and accessories. Some of these have names that conceal their real identity, but even the lowly ones come into fashion several seasons ago and are still considered chic.
Among the earliest arrivals were sports coats, really intended for general wear during the early autumn. They are for the country, for motor-ing to and from town, for travel and inclement weather. Racecoat, which has had a long run, is still used in the finer grades, but has seen its best days. A newer fur, which has had an instantaneous success, is European lamb. It resembles a cross between beaver and otter in both quality and color, is light in weight and carries the assurance of furriers that it will "wear like iron."
Straight in silhouette. These coats are exceedingly simple, being straight in silhouette, and made with standing collars of ermine, scarfs, plain cuffs and sometimes pockets. One new model is doubly smart because of its leather trimmings, which consist of a narrow strap of tan kid on the bottom of each sleeve and a belt which is attached to each side of the front and fastened with a leather-covered buckle.
Pony pelts are used for sports and every-day coats, the most attractive models being in tan, brown, black and gray. These are made on strictly tailored lines, some with leather belts. An ultra-smart coat designed by Max of Paris is made of black calfskin which has a lustrous moiré surface resembling broadtail—for which it is less supple. It is cut with a deep V inserted back and front, the lines beginning at the arms and converging to a point that defines a low waistline.
A degree better in quality is a novelty coat of ring-tail opossum. This is like mink in color, and is made of many small narrow skins joined with overlapping seams to form points and give a shaded effect. The collar and cuffs are of the same. Beaver is shown in some handsome coats that will serve for many occasions. They have self-trimming and in some cases belts of leather, metal or heavy ribbon.
Caracul, which has been in such universal demand for several years, is fashionable this season for wraps sleeve in the new way, several inches above the bottom.
Krimmer, nutria and amber seal are other furs shown in the season's unusually large collection, and one other in the list of novelties is a short-haired fur called Labrador Petchanki, which has a mixed color. Muskrat dyed to resemble seal is used by a prominent designer in New York for both the plain sports coat and for the more elaborate styles.
Several old-timers are enjoying a renaissance in the more elaborate coats and wraps. Much caracul, baby lamb and broadtail are being shown in models that flare and are made with varying lines. The debut of Paris presents in his collection a striking coat of baby lamb in tones that shade from beige to brown. The shoulders, fitting closely about the neck, are sewn with short radiating tufts and the collar widens toward the bottom, and hangs in ripples all the way around. Its high flaring collar, sleeves which are wide at the hand, and the bottom of the coat are all trimmed with a band of the darkest shade of the fur. A stunning coat for afternoon is made of ivory-white caracul with wide cuffs and a shawl collar of the same fur in black.
Mink More Prominent. According to prominent designers, French and American, mink is to be more fashionable than ever this winter, and a number of coats and wraps are shown almost entirely of the one fur. A mink coat for general wear is made with the pelts sewn together in curving lines that begin at the shoulders and sweep from back to front. This model is finished with a deep shawl collar of the mink. A contrasting model of dark mink is made in the form of a voluminous cape so cut as to have the effect of being double, and dips at one side to repeat the uneven hem line of the afternoon and evening gowns.
Ermine is the leading fur for evening, and fashionable couturiers are presenting it in coats, wraps and capes of great beauty, and, incidentally, worth a king's ransom. A superb cape of ermine is cut to lie smoothly around the shoulders and hang in full descending folds to a point at each side. With this design the seaming is diagonal and exceedingly graceful, and the whole is made more sumptuous with a large silver fox about the neck. Another model in ermine is cut in coat shape, flaring below the hips, and has one of the new, high, enveloping collars, which fit snugly about the throat, and wide cuffs all of snowy fox.
A full, wrap-around dolman cape of black moiré-patterned broadtail has a high turnover collar of ermine with a cluster of ermine tails at the back. A coat wrap of elegance and distinction that will answer for elaborate afternoon or evening dress is made of baby lamb. It has a bloused line about the hips and closes at one side of the neck straight down the front. A small scarf of Russian sable fastens about the neck, with one end hanging over the shoulder. With this coat is shown a muff of generous size, formed of five sable skins.

Historic Spot

The name "Philosophers' Camp" was given nearly 60 years ago to a clump of old pines in the Adirondacks near Saranac Lake, N. Y. A meeting and camp was arranged here for leaders of scientific and philosophical thought, including Ralph Waldo Emerson, James Russell Lowell, Louis Agassiz and many contemporaries. The pines are still pointed out.

A man who permits his suspenders to be seen in public is accounted an immodest person in hotels and night clubs. The man who insists on wearing suspenders in hot weather is so obviously defiant of his own comfort that the very sight of him naturally causes irritation.

Who said commercial aviation is still far off? During the month of June 210,000 pounds of air mail were transported by planes. There are accidents, as there are train wrecks, but the aerial mail men come and go almost unnoticed.

Thomas A. Edison is quoted as supporting the economic theory that the food market is limited by the capacity of the world stomach. Has he forgotten the adage that the biggest profit in mustard is made on that which is left on the plate?

Long in Poet's Brain Milton's "Paradise Lost" was composed between the years 1658 and 1663 and published in 1667. It was conceived, however, as early as 1640.

MANY FELT HATS AS EVER, BUT THEY ARE "SO DIFFERENT"

Interest is divided between simple lines of the vagabond ripple-brim type and the intricately worked fitted hat. The general tendency is to frame the face, be the hat considerably flared or of the beret and toque type. Actual bonnet shapes have come into fashion, taking the place of the regulation cloche. These are most becoming to youth, who wear them letting the hair show in front.

THE TENDENCY TO ELONGATE THE RIGHT SIDE IS VERY MARKED THROUGHOUT FELT HATS. The hat shown first, also the one at the top of the picture to the right show latest effects of this kind. The chic little shape to the left below is all of felt even to the bow which trims it. See how intentionally it frames the face, and, as said before, this is an outstanding characteristic of the latest models.

There is a clever touch noted in the toque shown to the right and that is the fact of it being trimmed in a cluster of novelty feather flowers. They are the identical color of the hat.

The last model is fashioned according to latest vogue. First of all it has the plaited side flange and also its brim drops at the back, a most excellent thing for it to do in behalf of women who are letting their "bob" grow out. The metal belt and buckle are in exceeding good style, bespeaking what promises to be a very popular trimming for fall.

Very clever flat topped feather brims are being introduced on some of the newest felt shaped. Fancy feather novelties will be widely featured for autumn.

Bows and Tiers Much in Fashion Picture

Now are only one illustration of a mode which has gone feminine rather than masculine. For example, there is the peignoir. Tried out tentatively last season, the little full skirt and the tips which have been trimmed by bands of all ages from the time of the 18th C. when they took to daisies and cornucopias on the side of the skirt, has come in for a tremendous amount of interesting attention. It graces frocks and coats and it may appear either alone or in the company of tiers.

And when it comes to tiers we encounter another evidence of our feminine mode. No chance of the tier bands in our skirts needing any re-sensitizing process. Far from it. Tiers and more tiers are doing our way.

A third manifestation of the mode is concerned with the princess silhouette. This is by no means the same old fitted garment our mothers knew by this name. The modern princess has new estates of finesse and subtlety. Although it retains the essentials of quitted corsetage and hips, it is so infected by panels, by the irregular hem line, and by other whims of the modern temperament that one has sometimes difficulty in tracing it to its fare.

Variation in Weights In the United States a hundred weight is 160 pounds. In England, however, a hundredweight is 112 pounds. The metric hundredweight is 110.23 pounds.

An Idea It might make an entrancing talking movie just to let the actors and actresses say what they used to say during the filming of the silent drama.—Detroit News.

Silhouette That Flares Prescribed by Fashion If you're wondering whether dresses will be distinguished by a silhouette that flares, you'll find that many of the smartest will. One especially chic version concentrates fullness on one side or at the back of the skirt, leaving the rest of the silhouette slim and straight; then there are flares proceeding from the hips all around the skirt or in one place only; and tiers, seen in tulle and satin evening gowns, usually circular in cut.

Vacation Plans For Roosevelt

Will Spend Three Weeks at Winter Home in Georgia—His Alsatian Dog to Accompany Him—Will Work While in South.

New York, Nov. 8 (AP).—Franklin D. Roosevelt, claiming the governorship of New York by a plurality of approximately 29,000, today began preparations for a three weeks' vacation at Warm Springs, Ga. His Alsatian dog, named "Spot," will accompany him.

With 150 upstate and two New York city districts unopposed, Roosevelt had polled 2,055,522 votes to 2,054,347 given to Albert Ottinger, his Republican opponent.

Roosevelt said he would go to work on state business while in the south so as to be in readiness to take over the reins of government which Governor Smith will hand over on January 1. He planned to leave New York tomorrow afternoon.

Business in all the non-ferrous metals has been close to average volume in the past week, with prices generally firm. "Engineering and Mining Journal" reports. The demand for copper was not so insistent as late in October and this is taken to indicate that fabricators have taken heart the frequently repeated assertion that there is no fear of an immediate copper famine.

Peekskill High Here Saturday

The Kingston High School varsity squad will play Peekskill at the Kingston Fair Grounds Saturday afternoon. The game will be called at 2 o'clock. This will be Kingston's last home game of the season. On the following Saturday they play Newburgh at the Hilly City and a week later Spring Valley at the latter's grounds.

Coach Kias so far this week has given his men light workouts, consisting of running around the Athletic Field and signal drill. Wednesday night the players had short scrimmage.

The Peekskill squad consists of very heavy men, and perhaps Coach Kias is taking care that none of his men are injured in practice, this being the reason for the light workouts.

SUNDAY SPORTS LAW
WINS IN MASSACHUSETTS

Boston, Nov. 8 (AP).—Although considerably retarded by concentration placed on returns for important offices on the ballot, the count on the Sunday sports law referendum at Tuesday's general election, had progressed sufficiently today to assure its supporters that the measure had swept the state.

As a result, paid sports, particularly baseball and soccer games, but not including boxing or automobile racing, will be locally permissible in all cities of the state next year which elect to grant local licenses.

Returns from three-fourths of the precincts in the state showed a "yes" vote of 57,553; "no" 29,728. In this city the vote was better than three to one in favor of the referendum which will make possible major league baseball games here next season.

Yellow Jackets Practicing Hard

The Yellow Jackets went through a strenuous practice at the Athletic Field Wednesday evening and will do another turn at rehearsing to-night for their game with the Cardinals of Albany, Sunday at the Kingston Fair Grounds.

In the Albany team the Kingston gridders will meet an aggregation well trained and established for it is said the eleven had not lost a tilt in two years. Among the teams they bucked were Watervliet, St. Bridgets, Troy Beacats, Woodlawn of Albany and the Royals of Schenectady. The Cardinals recently played a tie game with the Johnstown Barons, who displayed a good brand of football against the Yellow Jackets here several weeks ago.

About thirty men will be with the Cardinals when they come to Kingston Sunday. The eleven averaged 170 pounds and every man is claimed to be "the goods."

"Heavy" Beaman, "Hippo" Hoff and "Soldier" Burton, three members of the West Point Artillery team, ready to enter the fray if the up-staters tire the regular Kingston players.

Stage Now Set For Armory Bouts

All details have been completed for the card of bouts to be staged in the local armory Friday night under the auspices of the 156th Field Artillery. Present indications point to a record crowd for the luscious entertainment.

Vince Coffey and Eddie Mayo of Kingston and New York respectively, who are to meet in the feature six rounder, and all the other battlers are in good shape according to reports from the boxing camps. The quality of the talent slated to perform promises that the card will be well sprinkled with action.

Tickets for reserved seats are going fast and those in charge of the fights advise all who wish choice places of vantage to make arrangements by phoning the armory early.

Market for Fruits And Vegetables

New York, Nov. 5 (AP).—(State Department of Agriculture and Markets). While Danish cabbage from central and western New York was plentiful today, the market was dull with trading very slow. Jobbing prices on week stock were unchanged at $20-$25 per ton.

During the preceding week cabbage shipments from this state increased to 565 cars, but the movement from Wisconsin dropped to 220.

Receipts of upstate New York cut carrots were moderate. There was a fair demand and values held practically unchanged. Washed stock sold at $1.50-$1.75 a bushel basket. Unwashed carrots from the middle western states wholesaled at $2-$2.50 per 100-pound sack.

Price chances on Concord grapes were few and small. Arrivals were moderate and trading fair. Twelve quart baskets from the western part of the state peddled out at mainly 45c-50c. One year also Concord sold at 50c-55c.

Little activity prevailed on the market for white potatoes. Moderate supplies were on hand at most terminals but the demand was generally light, possibly on account of the unfavorable weather. Most of the upstate New York round whites in bulk peddled out at $2 per 150 pounds. Maine Green Mountain potatoes realized $2.20-$2.35.

The under-tone of the market on steady barreled and basket apples was dull and weaker on most other kinds.
